Positive and rapid cure guaranteed.

A Word About Catarrh.

It is the mucus membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissue of the air and food passages, that catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established it eats into the very vitals and makes life a long train of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trumpeting the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasure of taste. Insidiously by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the natural lining of the throat and envelopes the bones, eating the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient and all other remedies are simply procrastinated sufferings leading to a fatal termination. Dr Salm has by a treatment, local and constitutional made the cure of this dread disease a certainty and has never failed. Even when the disease had made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been restored and the disease thoroughly driven out.

Chronic Diseases.

The doctor treats no acute diseases but makes an entire specialty of chronic and long standing diseases. Cases given up by other doctors and pronounced incurable, he most desires to see. The doctor has treated over 15,000 cases in Pennsylvania in the last twelve years, many of which have been given up as incurable, some to be blind, others dead, and a large number to be invalids for life. But behold now they see and hear, and many are on the high road to recovery every day. The doctor is surrounded with the largest collection of fine instruments ever imported to this country for examining and treating chronic diseases of the Head, Face, Throat, Eye, Heart, Lungs, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bladder, Skin, Brain and Nervous System. Cancers, Tumors, Piles, Fistula, Open Sores, Fits, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gout, Sick Headache, Debility, Depression of spirits, Diseases of children, Hereditary diseases, Etc., etc., and in fact all long standing and chronic diseases.

Ear Troubles Cured.

In an astonishing quick time. He will relieve you of all roaring, hissing and ringing noises, heaviness, aching, pain, running of the ear, will close up a hole in a drum of fifty years standing, will insert Artificial Ear Drums of his own invention with astonishingly gratifying results.

Diseases of Women, such as have baffled the skill of all other physicians and remedies, quickly cured. Cancers, tumors, fibroid, and polypoid growths cured without the use of the knife or caustics. No cutting. No pain. No danger.

SOMEBODY'S COMING HOME.

Shine, O glorious day, shine clear!
Scatter the clouds with the sun's bright ray,
Gladdest and best, O day most dear!
Somebody's coming home to-day.

Sing, O little brown bird in the tree,
Warble your cheeriest roundelay,
Wake all the echoes of woodland glee,
Somebody's coming home to-day.

Laugh, O babe on my knee, with joy!
Clap your hands in the merriest way,
Somebody'll come to his baby boy,
Somebody's coming home to-day.

Ring, O bells of my heart, ring out!
Ring all the sadness and gloom away;
Ring away loneliness, fear and doubt,
Somebody's coming home to-day.

PRIVATE THEATRICALS.

Aunt Martha's Story of an Interesting Drama.

"Dear me," Edna said, tossing aside a small paper-bound volume, "this will not do at all. It is stupid."

"Stupid!" Jennie cried. "Is that all? All the rest are too long, or too short, or have too many parts, or some other insurmountable objection. But mere stupidity!"

"Don't be sarcastic, Jennie," Dollie said, looking up from her book. There were six of the girls, and on table, chairs and even the floor were sixty, at least, of the books.

It was just as Dollie spoke that Aunt Martha came in; tall, prim and stately, but as sweet as a rose for all that, and prettier at sixty than half the women of this world are at twenty.

"What are you doing?" she asked, with mild astonishment.

"Selecting a play for private theatricals. We want to help the fund for the sufferers at the B—— street fire," said Tassie, collecting scattered books in one great pile.

"Private theatricals!" said Aunt Martha, with a very odd smile. "It is a long time since I took a part in private theatricals. Forty years and more."

"You?" we all cried in chorus, for Aunt Martha, although she never interfered with us, was well known to disapprove of theaters and all that belonged to them.

"The audience was very small," said Aunt Martha, still with that puzzling smile, "and there were few performers. Still I tell you about it?"

"What was the play?" asked Edna, perhaps hoping for aid in her perplexities.

"The Midnight Alarm,'" said Aunt Martha.

"Can I get it?"

"I think not. It was composed for the occasion and never written out."

By this time we had deserted the table and array of "acting copies" of popular dramatic works, and were drawn up in a circle near Aunt Martha's chair, keenly interested in hearing all about it.

"It was when I was a young girl," said Aunt Martha, "and had been invited to be bridesmaid for my very dear friend, Dora Burke. She was the only child of a very wealthy widow who lived in Willow Banks, and had one of the most luxurious homes I ever visited. But it was in the country, ten miles from a large city, where Mrs. Burke owned another house in which her winters were passed, but which was rented to a lady who took Mrs. Burke and Dora as boarders for the winter.

"So, when it was decided to have a grand wedding, it was also arranged that it should be at Willow Banks, where there were many spare bedrooms, and which could be reached by carriages from the city. One peculiarity of the domestic life I must mention here. Years before, Mrs. Burke had been robbed by burglars, admitted to the house by a dishonest servant, and from that time she would have no servant sleep in the house. A separate building for their use was connected by a covered way and fitted up comfortably. Here Mrs. Jones, wife of the head gardener, kept house for the gardeners, stablemen and maid servants, who were summoned when wanted by a bell from Mrs. Burke's room. A second bell, also connected with her her room, was an alarm, only to be pulled if the men should be wanted at night for fire or burglary.

"The wedding was very grand, but, while the festivities were at their height, I was taken ill with a severe pain that I was subject to. I tried in vain to conceal my suffering, and finally whispered to Dora's cousin, Mollie Burke, that i must go to my room and lie down. She wanted to go with me, but that I would not allow, as she was filling Dora's usual place in assisting Mrs. Burke.

"I will come in before I go to bed, she said, and I slipped away unnoticed.

"My room was at the end of a long entry, a room I liked because it commanded a magnificent view, but it seemed lonely to me that night, going there from all the light, gayety and music in the drawing-room. There was an immense closet in it, as large as many modern hall-rooms, and in that was stowed much of the 'rubbish' that most families own, odds and ends whose usefulness is over, but which are too good to throw away. In this, I carefully hung up my fine dress, slipped on a woolen wrapper and crept to the bed, having only the bright moonlight to guide me. I could not sleep, but the pain wore away and I lay quiet, wondering how soon the guests would leave. Already Dora and her husband had driven away to the city, to start upon their wedding trip, but the rooms had been still filled when I left them.

"I cannot tell what made me think then of the temptation for burglars there would be in the house that night. The family plate, usually stored in a bank vault in the city, and only displayed on great occasions, was all spread in the supper-room. In the library were Dora's presents, valuable jewels, silver, lace and other costly offerings.

"As if in answer to my fears, I suddenly became aware that some one moved softly along the entry, creeping, creeping, to my door, and so across the room to the closet. As the figure crossed the window, I could see that the intruder was a tall, powerfully-built man. He entered the closet, and I could hear him stealthily crouch down in the corner, probably pulling over him some of the articles on the floor.

"I dared not move. Alone, a weak girl, far from the other inmates of the house, I was afraid he would murder me if I tried to get to the door. I lay shivering one minute, hot the next, my heart beating so hard I was afraid the burglar would hear it. I cannot tell how long it was before I heard Mollie's voice at the end of the long entry, bidding some one good night. Even then I was terrified. What were two girls in the grasp of a man presumably armed to resist arrest?

"As Mollie entered my room, dears, the private theatricals commenced, one actress for an audience of two. She spoke to me, and I moved my head uneasily, muttering like a person waking suddenly in delirium. Her fears at once took the alarm.

"'Oh, Mattie, Mattie, dear,' she cried, 'I had no idea you were so sick! Fanny!' she called, going to the door. 'Fanny!'

"One of the maids, who was, I learned later, making up a bed at the other end of the long entry, for an unexpectedly detained guest, answered the call.

"'Fanny, Miss Mattie is very sick,' Mollie said. 'Can you stay here while I call Mrs. Burke?'

"All this time I had been murmuring any nonsense that came first to my lips, but now I said in French:

"'Wait! I must speak to you before you send for Mrs. Burke. I am not sick.'

"'Oh, marm,' cried Fanny, 'what awful gibberish she do talk, to be sure!'

"'Yes, she has fever,' said Mollie, coming to the bedside. 'Get some cold water, Fannie, and bathe her head.'

"'Don't start or scream,' I muttered, still in French, in a low tone, keeping my head in motion; 'There is a man hiding in the closet who has designs on the plate and wedding presents, I am sure. Can you ring the alarm bell in Mrs. Burke's room and get the manservants here?'

"'Oh! you poor, poor darling!' said Mollie, caressing me. 'To think you have been lying here suffering while we were dancing and enjoying ourselves! But you must have something to take. Fanny,' as the maid came with a pitcher of water, 'bathe Miss Mattie's head, while I see what medicines are in the closet.'

"I said there was one actress, and I was wrong. Mollie walked coolly to the closet, knowing the thief was crouched down in the far corner behind some bundles, and took from a narrow shelf a few bottles, crossing the room to read the labels by the candle on a table beside the bed, and, returning again, two or three times, while I moaned and muttered, and Fanny pitied and soothed me.

"Really, my dears," said Aunt Martha, complacently, "considered as a first appearance, without study or rehearsal, I must say that it was very well done. The last bottle Mollie took back was put upon the shelf, and without hurry, but quite naturally, she closed the closet door and locked it.

"I knew then, what I had almost doubted, that she had understood me.

"'There is nothing here that will do, Fanny,' she said, quietly. 'I must see if Mrs. Burke has anything. Don't leave Miss Mattie until I come back.'

"Then I heard her go lightly and swiftly down the long entry, and my heart throbbed almost to suffocation as I wondered if the wretch in the closet would burst out upon us. And all the time I was keeping up the delirious moaning and muttering. Oh, how long the time seemed! But at last I heard the sound of heavy feet, the confusion of many voices, and, while Fanny stood in open-mouthed wonder, spilling over me the cup of water she held in one hand, five sturdy men walked into my room, headed by the upper gardener, and all armed with pokers, sticks or other weapons. The head gardener alone held a pistol.

"Cocking this, he opened the closet door and said:

"'Suppose you come out! If you've got a pistol, perhaps you'd better not shoot, 'cause what you'll get for burglary what ain't actually done ain't nothin' to hangin', if you murder me. And there's five of us, so you can't get away.'

"Then he came out, sullen and ugly. His first look was at the bed, but I had added to Fanny's amazement by suddenly recovering and joining Mollie and Mrs. Burke, who had followed the men into the room.

"'Oh!' said the ruffian; 'that's it, is it? Gibberish as was giving information. If I'd a knowed there was a gal on that bed when I came in I'd a stopped her clack. I'd a strangled her, that's what I'd a done.'

"And then, my dears, I finished up my private theatricals by falling to the floor in a fainting fit in which there was no acting at all."—Anna Shields, in N. Y. Ledger.

Canine Courage.

Animals, as a rule, understand who their friends are. The Washington Post tells the story of a dog whose eyes had been treated by an oculist, to his great relief. The trouble returned, and the dog's master determined to take him to the oculist's a second time. Flim Flam seemed to know where he was going, for, on entering the square where the oculist had his office, he raced ahead of his master and up the steps, where he had been once before, and on the door being opened bolted straight for the treatment-room, instead of waiting his turn downstairs, as two-legged patients learn to do to their sorrow and impatience. This time the treatment was a zinc solution that was very severe and brought the water in streams from the patient's eyes, but he took it with his nose in the air, never wincing, and the only sign of feeling he made was to hold out one paw pathetically for his master's hand.

A Circular Rainbow.

Many of the best scientists and philosophers declare that a circular rainbow is one of the impossibilities, and give learned reasons in support of their opinions. About two years ago this idea was exploded by Dr. Fleming, who observed and made scientific notes of one he saw in the Welsh mountains. He says: "On September 30, 1890, we mounted Finsterrehorn, and while near the top of the peak were treated to the rare sight of a circular rainbow, the phenomena lasting about half an hour, and forming a complete circle. * * * A second circle was also visible. We were near the summit of the peak when the first of the party observed it, and from that point the face of the mountain is almost perpendicular, giving a splendid view."

FULL OF RATTLERS.

Thrilling Experience of a Geologist In an Old Tunnel.

Prof. William Watts, assistant in the field for the state mining bureau, recently had, according to the San Francisco Examiner, an experience in Colusa county that made his hair stand on end.

"I went to Colusa county to examine a quicksilver mine in company with another gentleman," he said, "and after a ride of a few miles into the mountains we reached our destination. The mine had been partially developed by a tunnel run in about one hundred and fifty feet, but work had been abandoned many months before. We had proceeded but a few feet into the inky darkness of the tunnel when I, being in the lead, struck a match to light a candle. No sooner had the light flared up than I heard the warning of a rattlesnake and saw a big fellow coiled up at my feet ready to strike, while further on I saw numerous other squirming reptiles. The match dropped from my hand as I jumped backward several feet.

"Bz-z-t! Bz-z-t!

"Another snake sprung his rattle. I had landed directly upon the second snake and felt it wriggling under my feet.

"Bz-z-t! bz-z-t! rattled another from the tunnel side just by my face, and the whole place seemed alive with the horrible things. The din created by their incessant angry rattling was frightful. We got out all right, but were badly scared. Later a party was formed to exterminate the big nest of snakes, and large numbers of them were killed. The unused tunnel was just the place for them to spend the winter months comfortably." Prof. Watts kills rattlesnakes with his long-handled geological hammer, but says that when he strikes a tunnel full of them nothing short of a Gatling gun is of any use whatever.

TOOK TO BEANS TOO EARLY.

A Boston Boy Inhaled One and Had It Cut from His Lung.

In the amphitheater of the Massachusetts general hospital, Boston, on a recent afternoon, one of the operating surgeons, Dr. John W. Elliott, showed a Globe man a little child about three years old who had inhaled a bean into the lung, and on whom an operation was performed for its removal. The operation has proved remarkably successful. The bean, which was of the ordinary size of a white bean, had been inhaled into the right bronchus, and, as the right lung was thus shut off from receiving its proper amount of air, the danger of broncho-pneumonia with a fatal termination became imminent and tracheotomy was performed. The incision, about an inch long, was made in the median line of the neck, and after going through the superficial structures of that part the trachea was reached and incised in a vertical line. The incision was made large enough to admit a very long and slender pair of forceps, which were carefully passed down the trachea and into the right bronchus. A short distance below where the windpipe divides the end of the forceps touched the bean, which was firmly lodged. Grasping the bean with the forceps, the surgeon broke off a small bit of the offending substance and withdrew it. Three attempts resulted in getting only small particles. It had become softened, and the soft part of the bronchus had swollen and closed in about it. The next attempt was more successful. The fine teeth of the head of the forceps buried themselves in the substance of the bean and with careful manipulation it was extracted. Immediate relief was experienced by the little sufferer, and the child is practically well.

THE SCARF PIN WAS ALIVE.

How a Colorado Miner Reformed a Convivial Traveling Man.

"There is a Colorado miner who is a new kind of a temperance reformer. Being the owner of mines he is enabled to travel, and a few days ago he arrived in Chicago on his way home from Florida. Just to be eccentric, says the Chicago News, he bought a chameleon down south and had it fastened to the end of a little gold chain, so that he could wear it as a scarf decoration. The lizardish little reptile was about three inches long and, like all of its kind, changed the snakish color of its body when disturbed. The owner walked up to the hotel bar with a traveling man who had been "laying over" in Chicago three days, raising his expense account and other things. The traveling man did not see the thing on the scarf until he had poured his drink. Then he glared hard.

"'What's that?' he asked.

"'What's what?'

"'That—scarf pin?'

"'I wear no scarf pin.' The chameleon flirted its tail and crawled out on the lapel of the coat, as the owner brushed his hand toward the scarf.

"'Holy scissors, it's alive!' shouted the traveling man.

"'What's alive?' and the miner again brushed the little animal, which crawled under his vest. Then he looked down and said: "Now, do you see anything?"

The traveling man stood, shaky and pale, looking for the thing to reappear. "No more liquor for me," said he, suddenly, and made a rush for the elevator. By the time the crowd broke into a laugh he was too far away to hear.

AN "ELECTRICAL" SPRING.

Shrewd Device by Which the "Greenies" Were Gulled Successfully.

The Electrical Review publishes the following about a wonderful "electric spring." It was but a plain mineral spring, but the cups that the patients drank from were fastened by a brass chain to an iron bar which inclosed the mouth of the bubbling spring. You were prevented from coming too close by another circular iron railing about eight feet across. The ground around the spring was naturally moist, and it was either this ground or the iron which was one of the ends of an open electrical circuit. The cup held by the chain was the other end. The person drinking simply completed the circuit through the body, and when he had finished the attendant kindly and immediately removed the cup from his hand. The drinkers always felt that "delightful tingling sensation," and rejoiced that they had found the fountain of youth. Some imagined they even felt the new blood coursing through their veins. A small induction coil ingeniously concealed and connected with the cup and railing was a cheap method for producing that "invigorating feeling."

THE RULER OF RUSSIA.

Character and Habits of Czar Alexander III.

A Monarch Whose Life Is Wrapped in Mystery—His Influence Upon the War Issue in Europe.

A good illustration of the different points of view from which men observe the same question or condition of things is afforded by some some recent utterances by well-informed writers on the present situation in Europe.

These writers, while believing a general European war to be probable at no distant date, differ as to which of the European rulers is the most likely to begin it. A well-known correspondent of the London Times declares that the issue of war hangs upon the life of Emperor Francis Joseph. Should the emperor die, he would be succeeded by his nephew, who is represented as a vicious and incompetent prince. His accession, the correspondent thinks, would be likely to result in the disruption of the Austrian empire, and a consequent scramble by Germany and Russia for various portions of it, from which war would result.

An eminent London editor believes that a European war depends upon the caprices of the young German emperor. At present that restless potentate is strongly inclined to peace, but he is subject to frequent changes of mind, is fond of the science of war, and any day may alter his policy to a warlike one.

Still another writer, not less well known, is strongly of the opinion that the maintenance of peace or the initiation of war depends upon the will of the Russian czar.

He asserts that as long as the czar keeps a check on his ambitious soldiers and statesmen no collision will take place between the powers. When an event so momentous as a general war depends upon the life or will of any man, or of two or three men, the personal qualities of those men become a subject not only of deep interest, but of much public importance.

The czar of Russia has long been more or less of a mystery to the world in general. His life is so secluded and apart that even his own subjects can know but little of him. He is only seen in public when he drives hurriedly through the streets to his palaces or the railway stations.

A recent description of the czar by one entitled to belief in his accuracy presents in a somewhat new light the character of this mighty ruler, who holds sway over so many millions of his fellow-beings, and by a word could plunge Europe into war.

The contrast between the czar and his remote cousin, the young German emperor, is a very strong one. The kaiser shows an almost morbid activity of mind and body. He seems never to be at rest. He is constantly traveling, speaking, reviewing, issuing proclamations, devising policies and working at important state problems. He clearly desires to appear as a broad statesman, an effective orator, and as a skillful warrior.

The czar, on the other hand, is described as being very "slow minded." His mind works with difficulty upon the state questions which come up before him. He finds it hard to make his way through the mass of business which his ministers submit to him from day to day; he is said to work at his papers often until two or three o'clock in the morning, without having finished his task.

Alexander III. did not receive the special education usually given to heirs to the Russian crown. His elder brother Nicholas, who was the heir, did not die until Alexander had reached young manhood. Probably, if Alexander had been especially trained to fill the throne, he would have found his work less difficult.

One aspect of the czar's character which will inspire the respect and liking of Americans is his undoubtedly deep and devoted affection for his family. His happiest hours are those which he spends with his wife and children, and he is always relieved when his royal tasks are done, and he can return to his domestic circle.

The marriages of princes, which are usually dictated by reasons of state and not by mutual affection, are by no means always happy ones, and it is gratifying to see so powerful a ruler as the Russian czar presenting to his people an example of domestic happiness and fidelity.

A Puzzling Case.

A woman was brought to one of the New York hospitals some weeks ago suffering from typhoid fever, but one feature of the case could not be accounted for by the diagnosis of typhoid. The woman's body was covered from head to foot with small star-shaped figures. Each was composed of a central spot no larger than a pin head, surrounded by five other spots of the same size at regular distances from each other. Such a species of skin disease had never before come under the observation of the hospital staff, and there was nothing to be found in the books which would clear up the case. The woman was too ill to talk about it, and no light was thrown on the subject until the patient's mother came to the hospital to see her. She was an old woman, born in the Austrian Tyrol of peasant stock. She explained how on the first day her daughter was taken sick she had made the marks which were still visible on her body, and then rubbed her with kerosene as a preventive against fever. The instrument used was a cork with five needles stuck into it.

Baby Jack's Theology.

The doctrine of original sin is a difficult one to controvert, taking the world at large into consideration, but it is one which Baby Jack, aetat twenty-three months, steadily and sturdily refuses to admit into his theology. He says: "Now I lay me," with the utmost fervor and in a language of his own, which only the audacity of a mother would claim to mean anything. He asks: "Dod" to "b'ess" every one of his relatives to the forty-fourth degree, not forgetting his pet cat and "Hoo-Polly," the unclean rag-doll, but when mamma prompts: "Please make Jack a good boy," Master Jack says: "Das" in response as earnest as that of any good Methodist brother. "Das" means "yes," and Jack thinks he is a good boy, and no moral suasion can induce him to suggest to Providence that there is the slightest necessity for making over.—N. Y. Recorder.

TRACKING A CARIBOU.

Exciting Chase of a Determined Hunter After a Big Bull—Twenty-Two Miles Over Snow and Through Brush —Old Joe's Triumph.

A glance over a sportsman's experience will perhaps convey an idea of what still-hunting elk and caribou means when the animals have enjoyed the doubtful advantage of a slight acquaintance with man's murderous methods.

Now, first, as to the caribou—a keen-nosed, shy, fast-trotting, sturdy fellow, and right worthy game for any man's rifle. Two varieties of this species—the woodland and the barren ground caribou—inhabit the American continent. The woodland variety is found in Maine and certain extreme northern portions of the United States, notably about the headwaters of the Mississippi river and in the extreme north of Idaho. The barren ground caribou does not generally range so far south as the international boundary. In Canada caribou are much more widely distributed. They are plentiful in Newfoundland, scarce in Nova Scotia, more numerous in New Brunswick, abundant in Quebec and Labrador, and fair numbers of them haunt the wilds of northern Ontario (especially the north shore of Lake Superior) and portions of Manitoba. In British Columbia they abound among the mountains, and not infrequently great herds are seen defiling from some canyon or moving down some mountain side in Indian file, and looking at a distance like a pack train.

The best caribou-shooting may be had in Newfoundland and British Columbia, but Quebec and North Ontario yet offer rare good sport to those who like roughing it.

During the winter of '89, says E. W. Sandys in Outing, I was temporarily located at a point on the magnificent north shore of Lake Superior, my companion being a half-breed hunter who bore a resonant Indian title too long for insertion in these pages. When he wanted to travel light he bore the name of "Jo," which will answer for the present. It was cold up there in the icy breath of the Great Inland sea, but we were snug enough in an old railway construction log camp and had fairly good sport with grouse, filling up time attending to Jo's lines of traps. Between Superior and the "height of land" is a perfect network of lakes and streams, large and small; the country is very rough and rocky, varied with great barrens, muskegs and beaver-meadows. Vast portions are densely forested, and others carry only ghostly, scattered "rampikes," showing where fires have swept. Our headquarters were the log camp referred to, but we had a temporary camp at the end of a line of traps some ten miles inland, near the head of a chain of small lakes, famous in the annals of the fur trade. From it westward extended an immense barren for mile after mile, bounded by a gray-blue wall of forest.

One night, while we were at the little camp, a heavy fall of snow redressed the hard-featured landscape, and Jo and I fell to discussing the chance for caribou. About daylight we turned out, and Jo stood for a few moments reading the sky and sweeping the barren with those marvelous aboriginal eyes of his, which could count a band of animals farther than I could see them. Presently he grunted softly and exclaimed:

"Dar um car'boo!" and pointed westward. I looked long and earnestly, and at last made out a distant object moving slowly over the snowy barren. Getting the glass, I focused on it and discovered that it was indeed a caribou—a lone bull evidently—as no more could be found.

After hurriedly feeding, we stuffed our pockets with bread and meat, felt that matches, pipes and "bacey" were in their places, donned our snowshoes and started in the direction of our vanished game. "Car'boo all right; feed day on moss. Bymeby find um more car'boo," said Jo, and I guessed that he liked the prospect.

It was a cold, gray day, a sharp breeze blew directly across the barren, and now and then a few snowflakes sifted down, hinting of another downfall, though there was already more snow than we wanted. But there was little danger of anything serious, and we didn't trouble about the weather. After tramping for about three miles, Jo discovered the tracks of the caribou, but the beast itself was not in sight.

Jo decided that he would work across the barren in case the game had doubled on its course, and leave me to follow the track. "Me go cross, look long um tree. You run track, bymeby mebbe you find um car'boo," and he waved his hand, indicating that he would cross and then scout along the woods on the farther side.

I moved ahead rapidly, while Jo was in the open, being anxious to get far enough in advance of him to forestall all possibility of his wind reaching the game before I got within range. I had followed the track until it was nearly noon, keeping a sharp lookout ahead, before I caught a glimpse of the bull browsing quietly near the edge of the woods. A long look through the glass told me that he was a magnificent specimen, bearing a particularly fine set of antlers, and that he was feeding near cover which promised a comparatively easy approach within certain range. To obtain this splendid trophy was my firm resolve, if patient, skillful "creeping" counted for anything. Working carefully well to leeward the shelter of the dense timber was at last safely gained at a point some half mile from the game. I had already put in a lot of hard work and was half wearied, but the golden prospect sustained me. Once safe in cover the shoes were removed, and, gliding, stealing, flitting, shadow-like, from tree to tree, now crouching in the line of a bowlder, now crawling and wriggling painfully over a snowy open patch of moss, I at last gained the edge of the timber within one hundred and seventy-five yards of my meat.

He was standing with his rump to me, and his nose occasionally sought the moss, only to be raised in a moment and thrust into the wind while the gentleman chewed a mouthful. About half-way between us was a goodly clump of brush, overgrowing some scattered bowlders, while the space between my shelter and the brush was filled with little hummocks and hollows, showing where the low growth, moss, etc., upheld the snow. If I once gained the brush and nerves kept steady he should drop in his tracks. I hesitated for a moment between waiting for a broadside shot from where I was, or attempting to crawl to the brush, then got down on hands and knees and began the difficult journey. The hummocks were smaller and hollower when reached than they looked at first, and when half-way across the dangerous space it became a question of wriggling along as a serpent. In this position the caribou was invisible, but I had faith in the wind, and was wriggling doggedly forward when from a clump of moss not twenty feet from my nose a grouse walked quietly forth clucking softly to itself in regard to my probable business.

Here was a pretty position. Of course I didn't dare flush the grouse for fear of alarming the caribou, and for long, agonizing moments I lay there in the snow staring at that infernal bird, while it eyed me dreamily and chuckled in an exasperatingly commiserating fashion, until the cramp-knot in my leg grew hard as a baseball, and I fumed and raged and groaned inwardly. At last the fool bird satisfied its curiosity and trotted demurely away, and when it had got to a safe distance I straightened my cramp and wriggled on to the tuft whence the grouse had come. Inch by inch I raised my head until a clear view was possible of the bull's feeding-ground—he had vanished as though the earth had swallowed him! Hastily glancing up the barren, I caught sight of him walking smartly along a good four hundred yards away. He was not alarmed; he had neither heard, seen nor winded me. He had merely decided to move along.

But chance favored me in the next move. The caribou, after going half a mile, suddenly turned across the barren and headed for the timber on the farther side, at the same time edging slightly in my direction. This course kept him well to windward, and when he finally approached the distant cover I started for him again. It was a long, hard task to cross the barren in a crouching position, but finally I managed to get behind him safely and followed the track. I was now very tired, for the shoeing was heavy, but the chase was leading homeward. I was mad all through and game to fight it out on that line till darkness came. Presently it began to snow and in half an hour the air was thick with soft-falling flakes. This was in my favor, save that I sometimes lost sight of the bull, only to rediscover him walking steadily along headed direct for the camp. My only hope was that he might halt to feed. He was going about as fast as I could, and so for two good hours we reeled off the miles at an exercising gait. At last the snow almost ceased, but the air was darkening fast, and I guessed we must be within a short distance of camp.

While I was endeavoring to figure out my exact whereabouts the bull halted in an open space, bordered on my side by clumps of good cover, and began to feed. My weariness was forgotten in a moment; luck had turned my way at last, for he was in perhaps the best position for me that he could have chosen in the whole barren. Sneaking rapidly on as far as was safe, I once again doffed shoes and got down on hands and knees and crawled, and crawled, and crawled, until the cover was gained, and my victim stood broadside on, not eighty yards away. He was feeding busily and had no more idea that I was near than I had of shouting. Carefully I raised to my knees and waited one moment to pull myself thoroughly together for the shot that must needs decide the matter. A last glance at the distance, and at the sight to make certain that it was at the lowest notch and I thought to myself:

"Now, my son, I surmise I'll just settle for all this tramp. If I don't drop you—"

"Whang!" the roar of a rifle sounded from a clump to my left, a stream of fiery smoke shot from the brush, the bull gave a tremendous lunge forward and went down in a heap.

For an instant I was petrified with amazement; then leaped to my feet prepared to do I hardly knew what. From the brush near by rose a lank figure, a coppery face peered forth, and an unmistakable voice muttered: "Gess I down um car'boo!"

"Jo! You blank, smoke-tanned idiot, I've a blamed good notion to put a ball through you!"

Jo started with as much surprise as his kind ever show; then his broad mouth spread in a diabolical grin, for he guessed every incident of the story.

"Me no see you. See um car'boo cum long. Me hide, tink mebbe kill um car'boo. You l

GOVERNOR HORACE BOIES, of Iowa, has announced that he will not be a candidate for a third term as Governor of the state.

COMMERCIAL travelers, it is said, support two thirds of the country hotels in America, to say nothing of instructing the proprietors how to manage them.

REPRESENTATIVE FARR'S bill to amend the 1885 school law so as to require school directors or controlers to furnish school supplies free of cost has been passed finally by the House,

SECRETARY GRESHAM has a short leg, Secretary Herbert a short arm. Mr. Gresham calls his wound a memento of the battle of Atlanta. Mr. Herbert was wounded at the battle of the Wilderness.

THE Agnew local option bill was defeated in the House at Harrisburg on Tuesday by a vote of 68 for to 102 against. Representative Thomas voted against the measure and Representative Stineman voted for it.

THE total vote for Governor of Rhode Island at Tuesday week's election gives Baker, Democrat, a plurality of 185. But a majority of the whole vote being required to elect in that state, the result is no one is elected.

SECRETARY EDGE of the State Board of Agriculture has received crop reports from correspondents through the state which indicate favorable conditions with respect to all the crops this year. It is estimated that about 1,300,000 acres are in wheat and 1,250,000 in oats.

APRIL 15th and 19th have been designated as Arbor Days; but every person can plant as many trees on any day he chooses on his own premises. Those in authority should make it their business to see that trees be planted in school grounds and other public grounds.

A PETITION has been issued by the American Federation of Labor, addressed to the National Federation of Labor, requesting that a law be passed establishing a goverment telegraph telephone system. Copies of the petition have been sent for signatures to all trade and labor organizations in the larger cities, and the petition is to be presented early in December.

ONLY a comparatively few years ago all the vessels in our navy were of wood. Of the fleet of forty in the United States service twenty years ago, there are now but nine in service. Some are lying idle, others are used as receiving ships, a few have been sold. The names of those in service are Lancaster, Marion, Mohigan, Kearsarge, Adams. Alliance, Thetis and Yantic.

IT is understood that Postmastor General Bissell has ordered that no more fourth class postmasters shall be removed except for cause, until they shall have served all or nearly all of a four years term. This is a new rule, as these officials have never been considered to have a fixed term, but were removable at the pleasure of the department. The change is understood to have been made by direction of the President.

A. A. MCLEED, President of the Reading Combine, has resigned his office, giving as his reason his belief that needed financial assistance will not be accorded the company as long as he shall continue to occupy the positions of president and receiver. What the next move in the Reading combine may be, remains to be seen. The Combine wanted to monopolize coal roads, coal mines, and everything it coveted, but it had not money enough to carry out its schemes, and its grasp is broken.

WITHOUT the least show of nervousness Dennis Cloonan, the wife murderer of Fittsburg, walked to the scaffold on Thursday morning of last week and paid the extreme penalty of the law for his crime. It was just 10:57 when the trap fell, and 11:07 the physicians pronounced him dead. Perhaps there has never been a quicker execution. One minute after Cloonan left his cell he was dangling at the end of the rope and 55 minutes from that time his body was on the way to Calvary Cemetery.

FIFTEEN journalists arrived at New York on Wednesday from Liverpool on the steamer Majestic. They are the advance guard of a large delegation of English editors and proprietors who are coming here for the Columbian exposition. The entire party will visit the principal newspaper offices of New York city on a tour of inspection. A large number of distinguished passengers came on the Majestic, chief among them were James Dredge, the British royal commissioner to the World's exposition, and Walter H. Harris, who is assisting him in the transportation of an immense shipment of English exhibits for the fair.

THE President, on Tuesday appointed Daniel. N. Morgan of Connecticut, one of the solid men of New England, treasurer of the United States in place of E. H. Nebeker of Indiana, resigned. This is an important office. The treasurer is charged with the receipt and disbursement of all public moneys in the treasury at Washington and the various snb-treasuries throughout the country, and in the national bank depositories. He is also the trustee for bonds held to secure national bank circulation, and custodian of trust funds and agent for paying interest on the national debt. C. N. Jordan, who held this office under Mr. Cleveland's first administration, is appointed assistant treasurer at New York. Daniel M. Browning of Illinois gets the responsible place of commissioner of Indian affairs, to succeed Thomas J. Morgan.

THE Legislative committee having in charge the proposed amendments to the Baker ballot law suggest no less than 11 important changes. The first amendment is to strike out of the ballots the residence of the candidates, which is considered wholly unnecessary. It is in the nomination papers and only increases the size of the ballot by printing it on them. Second, to reduce the number of ballots. Third, fix one day to deliver the ballots to the judge of elections instead of two, the ballots to be delivered on the Monday before the election. Fourth to extend the time for the Sheriff to issue his proclamation. As the law reads now it is impossible for him to comply with it. Fifth, to require the Common Pleas Court of the district when nominations are made, except those made in State conventions, which shall be tried in Dauphin county courts, to decide upon the validity of all certificates of nomination. Sixth, that in marking the ballot candidate's name be marked with an X, and that group marking be done away with. Seventh, all groups to have a party appellation when that party for ten years has been making nominations in a state convention. Eighth, to repeal that portion of the law which requires the Sheriff to issue a proclamation for city elections. Ninth, that no candidate shall be allowed to act as a watcher or be permitted in a booth after he has voted. Tenth; that election officers shall not be permitted to prepare a ballot for a person who claims to be disabled, and, eleventh, to require all persons who claim to be disabled to make affidavit to the same.

THE April report of the Statistician of the department of Agriculture at Washington, makes the average condition of winter wheat on April 1 77.4, against 81.2 last year, and that of rye 85.7. The averages of the principal wheat States are: Ohio 87; Michigan, 74; Indiana, 82; Illinois, 72; Missouri. 76; and Kansas, 62. The average of these six states is 74.2, against 77 in April, 1892. It is 88 in New York, 87 in Pennsylvania, 89 in Maryland and 87 in Virginia. The Southern States range from 83 in Tennessee to 100 in Texas. The Pacific States show now a favorable condition, with the exception of California, where too much rain is reported. Seeding was late in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys because of widely prevalent drought, causing poor condition of soil and retarding germination and in some cases wholly preventing same, as in Kansas, where the reports show a total failure over considerable areas. In the Atlantic Middle, Southern and Pacific States seeding conditions were favorable.

THE action of Secretary Carlisle in refusing to purchase the Bowling Green site, New York city, for the custom house, and in declining to accept the Walnut street site in Philadelphia for the United States mint, is taken as indicating the policy in regard to the erection of public buildings, which is understood to be to defer the entering upon any costly public works in the present condition of the Treasury. No less a sum than $3,000,000 would have been withdrawn for the payment of these two sites had the Treasury authorities authorized the acceptance of the sites. It is, generally believed that Colonel Lamont, Secretary of war, who has charge of river and harbor expenditures, will follow on this same line of action. Between the two departments the payment of sums aggregating between $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 a year, can easily be deferred without hampering the public service until the Treasury surplus begins to grow again.

GOVERNOR TILLMAN of South Carolina was in Pittsburg, on Monday, looking around the glass manufacturers to get bottles for the liquor business in his state. After the first of May the entire liquor business in that state will be controlled by state officials. The Governor gives the following details concerning the future regulation of the liquor traffic in his state: The State commissioner will purchase all the beer and whisky drank in the state. At Columbia he will have this put up in sealed packages. The smallest will contain half a pint, the largest five gallons. All liquor must pass muster before the State chemist. These packages are to be distributed to county dispensers overlooked by a local board appointed by the State board of control, which consists of the Governor, comptroller general and the Attorney General. A county dispensary cannot be established unless a majority of the freehold votes petition for it.

THE nomination of Judge Lochren for pension commissioner meets with general approval. Judge Lochren's reputation as a jurist is of the first order, and his military record is brilliant. He is 57 years of age and was born in Vermont, where he was educated in the public schools and admitted to the bar. He went to Minnesota in 1852 and practiced his profession, but when the war broke out he was one of the first men in the state to abandon his civil pursuits and enlist in the First Minnesota regiment. His service during the war was severe, culminating at Gettysburg, where his regiment made the famous charge that checked Pickett's onslaught. Of the 300 men that made that charge only 40 came out whole, and Young Lochren, who started on the rush as a first lieutenant of Company E, came out in command of the regiment, every officer above his grade having been killed or wounded.

THERE were 1,149 deaths in New York City last week, a record which has been exceeded only sixteen times in twenty-years. This, too, without there being any epidemic, making the dead rate about thirty-two to every one thousand of the population. The principal disease seems to be pneumonia, which carried off 273 persons. This record runs New York's death rate as high, we believe, as that of any city in the country.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8, 1893. The newspaper romancers of the national capital having become tired of straining their inventive powers in describing the result of the "battle-royal between Mr. Cleveland and the Democratic Senators," a battle which has not began and is not likely to begin, this week started on another tack with the first chapter of a new and exciting romance entitled "dissensions in the Cabinet," which will be run as a serial in Republican and sensational newspapers as long as the invention of the authors holds out, or until something new and more startling shall have been evolved from their think tanks. This first chapter opens with a spirited description of the intention of Secretaries Carlisle and Gresham to resign, which is written with all the skill which has characterized the numerous "intentions of Mr. Cleveland," written by the same authors, and it is every bit as true. Neither Secretary Carlisle nor Gresham are dissatisfied, or have any intention of retiring from the Cabinet. On the contrary they are, in common with their colleagues of the Cabinet, in perfect harmony with President Cleveland in his determination to give the country the best and most successful administration it has had since the war, and, what is more important, indications of success are becoming more plentiful every day. If the Secretaries named, or any of their colleagues, were contemplating resigning, you may be sure that the Republican romancers would be the last men in Washington who would be taken into their confidence. Ananias was a mere novice in the art of prevarication when compared with the correspondent of Republican newspapers who try to earn their salaries by writing what their managing editors order, instead of the facts about Washington news.

No President ever appointed so many men under the age of 40 to responsible positions as Mr. Cleveland has, and his reason is apparent. He knows that the labor of carrying out his plans for thereform and purification of all branches of the public service will be enormous and that only men in the prime and vigor of life can stand it without breaking down.

Unless the Senate adopts a resolution calling for the facts, it is not probable that the people will ever know just how extravagant ex-Secretary of State Foster has been in taking his personal favorites to Paris as attaches of himself, ostensibly as necessary for a proper presentation of our case before the Behring Sea Arbitration tribunal. President Cleveland although much shocked at the facts when brought to his attention by Secretary Gersham concluded that it was a matter in which our National honor, to say nothing of personal courtesy and friendship for his immediate predecessor in the White House, was too deeply involved to be made public at a time when an international court of arbitration is sitting to decide important questions in which this country is interested. Much of the money expended by Foster will never be accounted for, as it was taken from the secret fund, always at the disposal of the Secretary of State. Although ex-private Secretary Halford is one of the principal beneficiaries of Foster's lavishness, no one believes that Mr. Harrison either knew of or sanctioned anything that was not perfectly right and proper. Foster as Secretary of State issued the orders that placed the money at his disposal as U. S. Agent.

The holders of sinecures in the Government service are all in a state of mind, as they know that quiet and careful investigations are in progress in every one of the departments, and that as fast as they are reached they will have to go

A considerable number of important appointments have been made this week, and so far as can be learned they gave general satisfaction to Democrats, particularly those in the diplomatic and consular service.

President Cleveland still retains his fondness for living in the country, and has leased a residence near the one he purchased during his first term, and he expects to have his family settled there by the first of May.

Secretary Morton requested Assistant Attorney General Colby, a Republican hold-over, to assist chief clerk Mac Craig, of the Agricultural department, in investigating the charges which have been made against officials of the Weather Bureau, in order that no one could say it was to be a partisan affair. He also ordered that all reputable persons who know anything for or against the accused officials to come forward and testify. Secretary Morton's plain and straight-forward way of doing business is rapidly earning him popularity. M.

A Cardinal's Life in Peril.

VIENNA, April 10.—Great excitement has been caused by an attempt to assassinate Cardinal Vaszary, the primate of Hungary. The Cardinal was walking with his secretary, when a well-dressed young man rushed upon the Cardinal and made desperate attempts to stab him with a knife. The Cardinal stepped to one side, evading the blows of the assassin, while the secretary received two severe stabs at the hands of the desperate assailant. The would-be murderer was arrested, but refused to give any information as to his motive or identity.

There seems to be no doubt that the attempt to murder the Cardinal was prompted by the intense struggle now going on in Hungary in relation to civil marriage and the baptism of children of mixed marriages, in which the cardinal is looked upon as the leader of the ecclesiastical party. The assailant appears to be a fanatic.

Do Not Like The Work.

BRADDOCK, April 11.—It is more than probable that no more negroes will be brought by the Carnegie Steel company to work at the Edgar Thompson Steel works. Of the 100 brought here three weeks since to work with the Slavs in the stockyards of the blast furnaces and on the improvements being made at the plant, but about 40 of them remain.

The colored men say that the comparison between picking cotton in the fields of Tennessee, Louisiana, Georgia and Florida and wheeling ore with Huns is too great, and those who have left Braddock have gone back to cotton-picking The Carnegie company is fearful now that the Huns for whom they brought the negroes to act as a sort of balance will get so independent that they cannot be controlled, and may make unfair demands now that they know other men cannot do the work they do.

Several People Lost Their Lives.

ST. JOSEPH, April 12.—A disastrous cyclone visited the country northwest of Stansburry, Mo., last evening. It moved from west to east and covered a strip of country two miles wide and six miles long. Almost every building in its path was torn to pieces. Several people were killed, among them Mrs. Ward. Her husband was fatally injured, as was John S. Sheton. An unknown woman was also killed. Most of the people knew the cyclone was coming, and had time to get into their cyclone caves and escape injury. The loss will aggregate thousands of dollars.

A Mining Horror.

LONDON, April 11.—A frightful mining accident occurred this morning at Pont-y-Pridd, Wales. A spark from an engine ignited the gas in the coal pit near Pont-y-Pridd and caused the gas to explode. A large number of miners were at work at the time and the explosion caused terrible havoc. The exact number of lives lost is not known, but it is rumored that twenty persons were killed and many others were more or less seriously injured.

Later accounts from Pont-y-Pridd show the situation to be more apalling than at first supposed. Three hundred miners are entombed in the mine. The pit is worked in sections, one seam being above another. The fire resulting from the explosion broke out in the eastern section. From this section men succeeded in reaching the surface through the main working, led by a miner who knew the roads. They had a terrible struggle to get out, forcing their way through the fire and smoke, and many of them were scorched and all were terribly exhausted when they emerged to safety. They brought no good news as to those who were left behind, but, on the contrary, expressed their dread that all in the mine had perished.

Almost Overcome.

LANCASTER, April 11.—Under Keeper H. H. Moore of the county prison had a desperate struggle this morning with an insane prisoner who tried to kill him. J. C. Van Nostran, formerly of Wilkesbarre, a drummer who was committed to jail to await trial on a charge of embezzlement, became insane recently, and a few days ago the court ordered his removal to the Norristown asylum. This morning Moore entered the cell to get Van Nostran ready for removal and the latter asked the keeper to pack his valise. While thus engaged the madman jumped on Moore and struck him a stunning blow.

The keeper was knocked on his back. He managed to give the crazy man a terrific kick in the stomach when the latter attempted to follow up the advantage of the first blow, and Moore thus gained more time to get up.

Van Nostran immediately assaulted him again, and, although the keeper is a very powerful man, it was only after a long and desperate struggle that he managed to disengage himself and escape from the cell. He at once returned with two deputy sheriffs, and as he stepped into the cell was struck a fearful blow over the head with a broomstick. The madman was then quickly overpowered and taken to Norristown.

Turkish Outrages at Armenia.

LONDON, April 10.—Advices from Constantinople show that the British Consuls at Smyrna, Trebizond and other places in Anatolia, have sent to the British Embassy in Constantinople, a list containing the names of 1,800 Armenians who are imprisoned, on various charges, in the several Consular jurisdictions. The question of the treatment of the Armenian Christians by the Turks, is again assuming importance and it is reported that Great Britain will propose the holding of a conference, by the European powers, to consider Turkish misrule in Armenia.

It is charged that it is a common occurrence for Turks to kidnap Christian girls, and dispose of them to the owners of harems. If the relatives and friends of the girls attempt to regain them they are met with the statement that the girls have embraced Mahommedanism, and this, as a rule, ends the matter so far as Armenians are concerned. The Christians are ridiculed and subjected to gross outrages, and if they object to that treatment they find themselves arrested on trumped-up charges and always found guilty.

Cleveland Will Start It.

CHICAGO, April 9.—President Cleveland will touch off the World's fair on May 1 in the presence of from 100,000 to 150,000 people. The plan to have the opening exercises in a small hall has been abandoned, and the ceremonies will be held at the east front of the administration building. There was considerable objection to the massing of so large a crowd in one portion of the grounds to witness the ceremonies, as it was feared that it might ruin the lawns and flower gardens, but these were overcome by those who favored an open air program.

A platform will be built just in front of the administration building. This will be connected with Machinery hall, so that President Cleveland will only have to step to the speaker's chair to touch the button. The new plan furnishes many opportunities for picturesque effects. It proposes to mass all the electric launches, gondolas and other water crafts in the basin and in front of the administration building. Thousands of spectators can get a fine view of the platform from the water front.

Burned in the Depot.

BALTIMORE, April 9.—In the destruction by fire last night of the Baltimore and Lehigh freight depot, George McGreevy, aged 18 years, was burned to death. McGreevy only arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. He came with a letter of introduction to Mrs. Watkins, the night telegraph operator at the depot and was laying on a lounge in the telegraph office when the fire was discovered by Mrs. Watkins and Mr. Hooper, the night freight agent. The man called to the boy to follow them as they ran to the window to escape. After the fire had burned itself out the charred body of the boy was found on the remains of the lounge. He was asleep, it is supposed, when called upon to run, and and did not hear the alarm.

A loss to the railroad company by the fire is the distruction of all the plans and drawings for changing the gauge of the road, work at which was commenced last week. These drawings were in Chief Engineer Troxwell's office on the second floor of the burned building.

—Officer George Martin was shot and instantly killed at Carlisle while pursuing a man down a dark alley. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the arrest of Charlie Salyards, the supposed murderer.

—An observant statistician makes the amazing assertion that girls with retrousse noses marry sooner, and are more fortunate in catching good husbands than young ladies whose features are of the Greek or Roman type.

—A hog on the ranch of Jule Gunter, near Gainesville, Tex., is said to be one of the greatest in the world. It is a Poland China hog, and is reported to weigh 1,420 pounds. It is "3 feet 4 inches high and 7 feet 2 inches long."

—In the manufacture of knives the division of labor has been carried to such an extent that one knife is handled by 70 different artisans from the moment the blade is forged until the instrument is finished and smoothly wrapped up for market.

—The imperial health officer of Berlin says "that the orange and the lemon are both fatal to the cholera bacillus. Placed in contact with the cut surface of the fruit the bacteria survive but few hours. Even on the uninjured rind they die within 24 hours at least."

—Mr. Edwin Folwer, the chief clerk to the first assistant postmaster general, has been detailed to assist Maxwell. During the first administration of Cleveland, Mr. Fowler was acting first assistant most of the time, and, as chief clerk to Mr. Stevenson, became thoroughly familiar with the office.

—The water of the Dead Sea is most intolerably salt and brackish. So great is its buoyancy that persons unable to swim elsewhere can here swim quite easily, or can lie upon the water, or sit and stand in it without effort. The Dead Sea is of a slightly greenish oily hue, and no fish can live in its bitter waters.

—On his death bed a Creek beggar in the town of Caracal made his poor wife promise that she would bury him in the tattered old overcoat he then wore. A friend came to the deceased, and the widow spoke of the beggar's request. They examined the overcoat, and it contained, in the lining 35,000 francs in bank notes.

—Captain John Christianson has made one of the deepest dives on record. He plunged into the waters of Elliot bay, at Seattle, and, after twenty minutes, returned with the laid line and a bucket from one of the hatches of the tug Majestic, lying at a depth at half flood tide of 196 feet. He apparently suffered no great inconvenience.

—A ten-ton cutter constructed of aluminum, said to be the first sea going vessel made of this metal, is being built at Loire for the Comte de Chabannes La Pallice. It will be half the weight of a vessel of similar class constructed with a steel frame. Her hull will weigh only 2,500 kilos, whereas, if built of the ordinary material, it would weigh 4,500.

—One of the largest trees in Lancaster county is to be found on the farm of Levi Sener, at Sener's Curve, on the Pennsylvania railroad, not far from Mountville. It is a buttonwood, and six feet from the ground the circumference of the trunk is 22½ feet. On it are nine branches that are each a fair sized tree in size, and five of these are each estimated to be 75 feet in length.

—A cyclone passed over the southern part of Scranton on Saturday night, which resembled the terrific storm in Wilkesbarre two years ago. Though the strip of territory over which it was extended was narrow the damage done was considerable. Houses were unroofed, trees and fences carried away and a summer kitchen moved fifty feet. Several were painfully hurt but there were no fatalities.

—About one hundred of the five hundred men in the locomotive shops of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad who struck on Saturday returned to work on Monday morning. None of the men in the car shops who the machinists claim would join them, are out. Should the strike continue for several days nearly all the men in the car shops will be laid off, as with the locomotive shops idle there will be no work for them.

—Miss Bess Mitchell, who has traveled around the country in three weeks, set her feet upon ground again on Saturday afternoon. She left the city on a wager that she could travel 10,000 miles without leaving the railroad car, and she succeeded in accomplishing the feat. The route took Miss Mitchell to Portland, thence south into Mexico, back to St. Louis and back to Boston. She was weary of riding, but had enjoyed the adventure thoroughly. In several towns she was visited by curious women, but the trip was without special incident. Miss Mitchell promises not to write a book.

Pullman Accommodations to the World's Fair.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company announces that arrangements have been perfected whereby passengers intending to go to Chicago may reserve their Pullman car accommodations in advance. Passengers taking a train at New York may reserve the requisite Pullman space one month in advance of departure, those from other points on the system two weeks in advance. This arrangement can be made upon application to ticket agents of the Pennsylvania railroad, who, after securing the space, will deliver a reservation slip to the passenger. Passengers thus reserving space in advance will be required their tickets seven days before the date of departure, otherwise the reservation will be considered as forfeited.

Accommodations in Pullman cars for the return trip may also be secured upon application to ticket agents of the Pennsylvania railroad.

This arrangement will prove a great bene fit to visitors to the World's Fair.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

You will remember the condition I was in five years ago, when I was afflicted with a combination of diseases, and thought there was NO HELP FOR ME. I tried all kinds of medicines, and scores of eminent physicians. My nerves were prostrated, producing dizziness, heart trouble and all the ills that make life miserable. I commenced to take and in three months I WAS PERFECTLY CURED. In my travels each year, when I see the thousands of physical wrecks, suffering from nervous prostration, taking prescriptions from local physicians who have no knowledge of their case, and whose death is certain, I feel like going to them and saying, "GET DR. MILES' NERVINE AND BE CURED." In my profession, where there are so many situations, CURED of overwork, men and women fall prostration and nervous exhaustion, brought on by the character of the business engaged in, I would recommend —David Caldwell, a prominent citizen of Huntingdon, and a member of the bar of that county, suddenly dropped dead in Tyrone on Thursday of last week, while walking along a street of that town. Persons who saw him fall ran to his assistance, but he was past all help. He was was about 69 years of age. For a number of years Mr. Caldwell was largely engaged in the lumber and mining business at Sonman in this county.

—The biggest tree in Pike county stood until a week or so ago in Green township. It was such a towering monarch that settlers cut all around it, and for a century it was a notable landmark on the mountain top. When chopped down it was found to measure 372 feet in length and the infallible record of rings showed its age to be 462 years. It was born 62 years before Columbus touched America. About $2,000 worth of lumber can be sawed from this giant tree.

—About 9 o'clock on Friday morning lightning struck the barn of Henry Yost, of Richland township, setting it afire. The barn, which was a new one, contained nine tons of hay, a large quantity of grain and farming implements, and it was entirely consumed. Three cows were killed immediately by the lightning, and two perished in the flames. The horses, two cows, and a wagon were saved. The loss is $2,000 on which there is an insurance of $500.

—This talk of pensioning judges has about as much common sense in it as a proposition to run an elevator to the moon, if the tax-payers are to be required to pension every official who draws a fat salary for wearing out the gable end of his trousers on the judicial bench, when he gets too lazy for further annoyance, it is nigh time that they begin pensioning themselves for paying taxes and remaining under the glorious ban of this republic.—Bellefonte Watchman.

—Joseph Pringle, who was convicted at December term of court of malicious mischief in cutting a lot of belts on the sawmill of John Brown, in Summerhill, and sentenced to four months imprisonment in jail, completed his term on Wednesday when he was released only to find a United States officer awaiting him, who took him in charge and conveyed him to Pittsburg to answer a charge of counterfeiting. A die for the manufacture of bogus dollars was found in his possession some time ago.

—It is stated that the new postal money orders will soon be ready for use, and the system is pronounced such that there is little or no complication, and at the same time it is a good way to send money. A sheet calling for any amount from a cent up to $5 has been prepared, and which on payment of the amount to be sent, will be torn off about the same as an express order. There will be no writing upon it by the postmaster, the sender endorsing it as a check or draft. The government guarantees its transportation.

—The examination of candidates for the inspectorships of bituminous mines will begin next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock in the court house at Pittsburg. There are eight bituminous districts in this state, and if the commission bill now in the Senate committee becomes a law before the examining board adjourns there will be ten districts to provide with inspectors. The inspectores are appointed for four years, and the terms of those now in office expire this year. There are about one hundred and fifty applicants for eight or ten positions.

—On Sunday morning two tramps visited the house Mr. B. P. Anderson, in Allegheny township, while all of the family except Mr. Anderson, who has been sick for some time past, were at church, and ransacked the house taking some money, a cornet and several small articles. On their return from church, Mr. Anderson's sons started in pursuit of the vagabonds and captured them near Loretto. A warrant was issued for their arrest and the two men who gave their names as Young and Schrader, were brought to jail where one of them had been a boarder heretofore.

—The citizens of Cambria township in the vicinity of Beulah are out with a petition to the supervisors and are determined to prevent a grade crossing on the public road leading from the Pittsburg pike to Beulah. Near the deserted village the railroad crosses the public road with a fill of eighteen feet and the railroad company proposes to fill up the road on each side, so that the road crosses at grade. The citizens of the vicinity want the railroad to cross the public road with a bridge, alleging that to cross the railroad at grade will make a steep hill to pull up, and on account of a curve and cut in close proximity, a dangerous place for teams to cross.

—T. M. Green is repairing a house in Belsano owned by J. Edwards. The house has been used for some time as a wagon and repair shop by W. S. Stephens. A few days ago Mr. Greene's son went up into the attic and while looking around discovered something white which he brought down to his father. Upon examination it proved to be a pair of molds made of plaster paris for making dollars of the date of 1889. It has been used and there is no telling how many dollars this pair of molds has turned out. Two other molds were found, but they were faulty and had not been used. Who used them and how they got there, no one knows but the parties who used them.—Herald.

—A series of fires occurred in Morrison's Cove, Blair county, on Tuesday of last week. The barn of John Yingling was burned with its contents, crops, implements, eleven horses and seven cows. Loss $7,000 with $1000 insurance. The wind carried the sparks to the barn of A. C. Coven, an eighth of a mile away, and it was also destroyed, together with 5 head of cattle. His loss is $1,000; no insurance. William Marsden's house and barn were consumed together with the contents. His loss is $3,000, no insurance; M. M. Moore's house and barn were also burned, the live stock and a sewing machine being the only things saved. Loss is $2,500, insurance $1,200. It is believed that Yingling's barn was set on fire and from this blaze the others caught.

—On Wednesday afternoon Raphael Byrnes, who is at present employed on the Driskel Hollow job, made information before 'Squire Baker, of Susquehanna township, charging the following parties with violating the liquor law: William Townsend, W. L. Nicholson, E. L. Beckwith, A. Lantzy, M. Gilpatrick, Michael Nagle, E. E. Nagle, all hotel keepers at Hastings; M. Weakland and John Glasser, of Carrolltown, and Chas. Anna, of St. Boniface. The violations alleged are about as various as the parties charged with them, and no more definite date is given than "93." At the same time information was made against Wirtner & Gues, and J. Goldman, of this place, charging them with violating the Sunday law by the sale of goods on that day. The accused parties pronounce it a blackmailing scheme, and are little concerned about the result.—Hastings Tribune.

The Use and Abuse of Whiskey

This subject could be dwelt upon to a considerable length and yet much remain untold, but all agree that the use, the proper use of pure rye whiskey is an absolute necessity, especially so now, when nature insists upon being stimulated. All regular physicians prescribe rye whiskey, and justly claim that Klein's Silver Age and Duquesne Whiskies are most reliable. They do this not only because they have tried them, but because the leading hospitals use them—find them the best stimulants in the world. Silver age sells for $1.50 and Duquesne for $1.25 per full quart.

For sale by J. Ludwig & Son, Johnstown.

University Extension Movement in Ebensburg.

The following committee has been appointed to canvass the town and surrounding locality to solicit subscribers to the university extension lecture Course: Misses Hattie Fish, Emily Evans, Maggie Shenkle, Mary Roberts, Revs. S. R. Jones and E. M. Bowman, Messrs. H. H. Myers, J. W. Leech, Ossie Wilkinson, C. O. Firdlay and T. L. Gibson.

The course consists of six lectures to be delivered at weekly intervals, on the poets of the revolutionary age. The lectures will begin Monday evening April 17.

Tickets for the six lectures to be sold for $1, thus bringing the cost of each lecture down to 17 cents. For the same grade of lectures in any other course, each lecture would cost not less than 50 cents.

The extension course includes several centers forming a circuit in a certain part of a state. The circut including Ebensburg, consists of Greensburg, Somerset, Latrobe and Uniontown. The reader will see how the price of the lectures can be put so low.

What does university extension lectures mean?

1st. It means that a high class of entertainment is afforded those who desire it.

2nd. It offers a course of lectures that otherwise could not be had for three times the money.

3rd. It brings a partial education within reach of many who never could attend such an institution.

4th. It presents an opportunity, especially to young people, to improve themselves, with little outlay.

5th. It elevates the entire moral and intellectual tone of a community by coming into personal contact with the leading educators of the day.

6th. It brings before the people the best things that have been said and done in the past.

Will Ebensburg support such a course?

Neighboring towns have tried it and highly recommend it.

The following is a letter from, Dr. S. C. Schmucker of the Indiana state normal school, concerning the course which just closed there:

Dr. Robinson has just finished a course for us. Everybody is delighted, and university extension is a permanent feature of normal. You can promise anything and the doctor will make it good. He is one of the best lecturers—I say it advisedly—that I have ever known.

The university extension method is the best out. The doctor and the method make a combination that is absolutely irresistible. Take him by all means if you can in any way do it. We started with a promise from the board to foot a deficit to the tune of $50, and came out $75 ahead.

You cannot make a mistake on him.

Yours,
S. C. SCHMUCKER.

Dr. Robinson himself writes us that in every case the number in attendance increased with each lecture. The attendance at Williamsport ran thus: 1st, lecture, 216; 2nd, 254; 3rd, 255; 4th, 314, etc. Indiana, 282; 311; 337; 360, etc.

Do we want to improve ourselves? Then embrace this opportunity.

Let each one consider the matter seriously before refusing to support this useful project.

Excursion Tickets to the World's Fair.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company announces that the trunk line passenger comamittee has authorized the railroad companies to sell excursion tickets to Chicago on account of the World's Columbian Exposition on a basis of $40 from New York by fast express trains, and $32 by express trains scheduled to make the run in thirty-five hours or more. Proportionate rates will prevail from all stations in trunk line territory. The round-trip rate from Philadelphia will be $36.50 by fast trains, and $29.20 by the thirty-five-hour trains, starting from New York. From Washington and Baltimore the rate will be $34.50 by fast express trains, and $27.60 by slow trains.

These tickets will not admit of a stop-off en route, and can be used for a continuous passage only. The tickets will be on sale from April 15th to October 30th inclusive, and will be valid for return trip until November 15th, 1893.

All the lines leading to Chicago will sell tickets good for passage going by one route returning by another, so that a person may go out by the Pennsylvania railroad, and, if he wills, return by the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie, or any other trunk line, or go out by any other line, and return by the Pennsylvania.

Carlessness.

On Tuesday night Mr. David Davis, a driver for Kimball & Apel, liverymen, in this place, while returning from Cresson with a two-horse team and carriage, drove into a ditch that had been opened half way across the street for the purpose of putting water into a new house recently erected by Barker Bros., and carelessly left open. The ditch was about three feet deep and both horses got into it, and in their struggles tramped and cut each other badly, besides breaking the harness and carriage. It will take several days to tell just how badly the horses are injured, and how much the borough will have to pay for the carelessness of the water superindent. The clerk to the council should now be directed to give the water superintendent "written instructions" to either close a ditch across a street or put up a guard rail when left open at night. Some water superintendents come high, all things considered, but he can always be relied upon when on an election board or in voting the Republican ticket.

The Beech Creek Extension.

The new line of the Beech Creek railway between Kerrmoor and Mahaffey, 12 miles in length, was opened on Monday and the first through passenger train from Williamsport passed over it.

The building of this road began in August, 1891, and has been rapidly pushed through since that time. About 1,000 men were at work on it all the time.

This new line passes through a magnificent part of the state, and the scenery along the road is very picturesque. There are only two tunnels along the extension, one known as Friendship tunnel, being 800 feet in length and two miles from Kerrmoor, and the other, Hoyt tunnel, 500 feet in length and a mile west of Friendship tunnel. They are 36 feet wide, substantially arched with stone and brick and timbered with oak.

—William Funk, aged 16 years, a resident of Paterson, Juniata county, attempted to board a freight train on Sunday in the vicinity of Port Royal. He missed his hold, fell under and his right foot was crushed. This is another warning but of course will not be heeded.

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It is manufactured as a powder, which can be given in a glass of beer, a cup of coffee or tea, or in food, without the knowledge of the patient. It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. Curge guaranteed. 48 page book of particulars free. Address

Argument Court.

Argument court convened on Monday. The following business was transacted:

By Mr. Shoemaker—Petition of Adam Shuman, administrator of the estate of Thomas Rager, deceased, setting forth the sale of certain real estate to Benjamin F. Rager for $450.

In the matter of the partition of the estate of Jacob Rickard, of South Fork, Joseph S. Wick, trustee, reported that he had sold a piece of land to Jacob C. Stineman for $650.

Also, petition of Margaret Vogle, guardian of the minor children of Augustine Vogle, deceased, for an order to sell at private sale their interest in a piece of land at Lilly to George Brant for $225. Order made.

By Mr. Brown—Petition of Herman Baumer and Jacob Fend, assignees of T. R. Marshall, setting forth that all the creditors had been paid in full, and asking for discharge. An order of publication was made, and the matter will be taken up at the June term of court.

By Mr. Evans—Petition of James M. Shumaker, trustee, to sell the legal title of John Krist and the equitable title of Albert McCance, deceased, in 112 acres of land in Allegheny township, with the report that he had sold to M. D. Kittell for 2,410, and asking for confirmation. Confirmed.

Also, petition of Joseph W. Eckenrode, administrator of William Eckenrode, deceased, setting forth that the estate had been settled and asking for discharge. Discharged.

Also, petition of citizens of Portage township for the vacation and supplying of a road; also, petition of citizens of the same township for an order to vacate a road. Granted.

By John M. Rose—Petition of H. W. Slick, assignee of William M. Peters, setting forth that he had performed the duty for which he was appointed and asking discharge. Discharged.

By Mr. Martin—Return order of sale of Joseph E. Sedlmyer, administrator of the estate of James Griffin, deceased, setting forth that the property remains unsold and asking for another order of sale. Order made.

By Mr. Kittell—Petition of John Able, guardian of the minor children of Jacob Koontz, asking for his discharge. Discharged, and John A. Dillon appointed in his place.

By Mr. Story—The return order of sale of H. W. Story, as assignee of D. B. Parker, asking for confirmation of sale of Mr. Parker's property in the Fifth ward of Johnstown to Robert Mc Auliff for $1,325. Confirmed.

Also, asking for alias order to sell real estate of Mr. Parker in Coopersdale. Order made.

Also, return order of sale Aaron Stutzman, assignee of Eli Benshoff, reporting that he had sold the estate of the assignor to Charles B. Ling, subject to a mortgage held by the Johnstown Savings Bank for $3,180.

Also, petition of S. A. Snook, guardian of minor children of Leopold Bingle, deceased, asking for an order of allowance for support and maintenance. The court awarded $4 per month for each child.

Also, petition of citizens of West Taylor township for the appointment of a collector of taxes, and asking that Robert M. Goughnour, who was elected last February but failed to file his bond in time to qualify, be appointed. This was met by another petition, presented by M. D. Kittell, asking for the appointment of John Eckles, who was tax collector last year, and alleging that Goughnour is not a resident of the township. Both petitions held over for information.

Also, in the matter of the application of Charles Maneval, of the Third ward of Johnstown, for a liquor license, stating that his new building, to take the place of the one destroyed by fire, was almost completed. The court granted the license, to date from the 8th of May.

By Mr. Myers—His report as auditor in the estate of Mary C. McCloskey. Confirmed nisi.

By S. L. Reed—His report as auditor in the assigned estate of Frank Hahn. Confirmed nisi.

Also, the petition of Matthiot Reade, executor of the late George M. Reade, who was assignee of John S. Kaylor, asking for the appointment of another assignee to close up the matter. The court appointed Matthiot Reade.

Also, the petition of Charles J. Pringle, administrator of L. Pringle, for an order to sell real estate to pay debts. Order made.

By Mr. Zimmerman—Petition of William A. Gerhard, constable of Adams township, asking to be relieved, and petition of citizens of the same township asking for the appointment of George C. Felix in his place. Mr. Felix appointed.

By Mr. Murphy—His own report as auditor to distribute the funds in the hands of James E. Mangus, administrator of the estate of Daniel Mangus, deceased. Confirmed nisi.

By F. J. O'Connor—Petition of Anton Riek, of Lower Yoder township, for divorce, on grounds of desertion and cruelty. Subpœna awarded.

Petition of Joseph Lantzy, of Barr township, for appointment of jury to ascertain the damages to his property by the Cambria & Clearfield railroad. Names were submitted to the court for appointment. The court deferred action.

The motion for a new trial in the case of William F. Cook, convicted of embezzlement, was refused. Sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Commonwealth vs. Richard Byrne, selling liquor to minors. Defendant plead guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Commonwealth vs. James Grimsley, embezzlement. Motion for new trial. Argued and held for advisement.

The bridge case from Susquehanna township was settled.

The court granted a rule on Alfred Ashton, Esq., to show cause why he should not be expelled from the bar of Cambria county.

BALTZELLS'.

NOT all the clap-trap talk on earth can make any kind of black dress goods equal to the matchless silk wrap Priestly Henriettas. No other goods are made like them. Best Australian wool and pure silk—there is no creasing, fading or wear out to them. Always new and silky looking, there is no fabric equal to them and we have the sole agency in all their goods for this city. There are Priestly summer goods as well as Henriettas, soft beautiful weaves that bear the crucial test of the magnifying glass. We have many other black goods all of exceilent quality and at prices down to 58c. a yard for all wool and in cotton mixed down to a few cents. Our black goods stock is unrivalled and will remain so.

In the colored dress department we are offering some strong bargains in serges all shades, all wool and 46 inches wide at 62½ cents a yard. These have always sold at 75c. to $1.00, but we bought out the manufacturers' entire stock and no more can be had at any price. This a rare bargain chance.

We have a few pieces of Crepons and Bedford Cords in tans and greys that we wish to close out, so take your choice at 55c. a yard. All along were 75c., but the rest are cut to 55c. Two pieces of grey are left from the $1.25 sort. This week you may have them at 80c. a yard. Only a few of our light pattern goods left. Trimmings to match. Capes are all the rage and we have sold an incredible number. The demand is still on and we can supply it. In browns and tans with embroidered butterfly collar or plain, $3.75 to $5.00 will secure a pretty one. Handsome tans with velvet collars are $10.00, and more elegant ones with satin ribbons and velvet collar are $10.00.

MARVELS OF FICTION.

Even Authors Who Have Studied Medicine Fall Into Errors.

Doctors laugh, according to the Boston Globe, and with reason, when authors dabble in medical matters, for the incidents narrated in novels are often not only improbable, but impossible.

Dumas made a guillotined head speak and weep.

One of the strangest things in "Monte Cristo" is the way in which the old revolutionist Nortier manages to live on, paralyzed in every part of his body except his eyelids, which he winks freely.

Yet the old fellow reasons acutely, and finds no difficulty whatever in swallowing food or drink.

Dumas seemed absolutely unaware that such a paralytic condition as he describes in Nortier's case involved of necessity brain damage of the most serious kind.

Then there was Krook, the "lord chancellor" in "Bleak House," who went off this earthly stage by spontaneous combustion. Dickens might well be excused for falling into an error which was at that time commonly believed in by people who ought to have known better.

Bulwer Lytton went in for medical marvels in "Zanoni," but as he was a student of mystic lore, and actually learned magic from a professed thaumaturgist, the Abbe Constant, his wonders were attributable not so much to his ignorance of medical science, as to his belief in the elixir of life and the transmutation of metals.

Wilkie Collins made a specialty of his medical knowledge, but his medical men and their wonderful doings could never have existed outside his own imagination.

The poets are, if possible, even worse offenders in the matter of their death scenes than the novelists.

A man pulls a two-drachm vial of some poison from his breast, swallows the contents, proceeds to make a two-hundred-line speech without a pant or a gasp, staggers gracefully backward to a conveniently placed seat, reposes upon it, claps the region of the heart with both hands, and dies after a little convulsive movement of the legs.

Heart disease, too, carried off heroine in a fashion quite unknown to doctors and, although it is of the variety known as "broken heart," has characteristics which must not be generally associated with fracture of so important an organ.

FAMOUS TROTTERS' EARLY LIFE

Many of the Most Noted Were Discovered by Accident.

It is a remarkable fact that many of the most famous horses of the trotting turf were not appreciated until after they had arrived at maturity. With a great many the trotting quality was discovered by accident. It is on record, says the Newark Sunday Call, that Flora Temple was once sold for thirteen dollars, and the great mare Princess, dam of Happy Medium, brought her breeder about forty dollars. Tacony pulled a stage and Mack likewise. Abdallah I. would have been made to haul a fish cart had not his lofty spirit rebelled at the indignity. Billy Button was used as a runner to force the pace of Peralto. Goldsmith Maid was once sold for one hundred dollars, and the dam of Ethan Allen was sold at the age of ten for thirty-five dollars. Dutchman worked in a brickyard; so did Old Columbus, and Andrew Jackson was foaled in one. Charlie B. was used to haul stone up from a quarry by derrick and pulley. Godolphin Arabian drew a watering cart in the streets of Paris; Justin Morgan was long a wheel horse in Vermont.

The grandam of Monbars did farm drudgery. The dam of Billy Button hauled garden truck to market and pulled a milk wagon alternately. Gifford Morgan drew slabs from a sawmill and at one time was sold for one hundred dollars. The dam of Flying Morgan used to peddle woodware. The sire of Rarus was worked to a butcher's cart, and it is said that the dam of Black Hawk also drew a butcher's cart. The first authentic account of Old Pilot places him in the hands of a Yankee peddler in New Orleans. The dam of Lady Griswold was used by a patent medicine vender. The dam of Green Mountain Morgan ground apples in a cider mill. The dam of Taggert's Abdallah drew the wagon of a tin peddler. It is very easy to account for the Morgans being put to a somewhat menial service. They were strong, hardy and speedy. They would work anywhere and their descendants will to this day. No road is too long for them, and no reasonable load too heavy.

Dog and Canary.

The London Spectator says that a lady living near London had a pet canary while her brother was the owner of a fine retriever who was also much petted. One day the canary escaped from the house but was seen flying about the grounds for a few days perching always on high elm trees. All efforts to call it were unavailing and at last it disappeared and was given up as lost or dead. A few days later the retriever was seen running toward the house with the canary in its mouth, carrying it most delicately. The dog went straight to the owner of the bird and delivered it into her hands without even the feathers being injured, and then, while she praised and petted him, the intelligent animal stood by and wagged his tail in a way to express his satisfaction at the result of his deed.

FOREIGN STATISTICS.

THE Indian Medical Record shows a terrible record of deaths from cholera. In fourteen years, from 1877 to 1890, it declares that 1,000,826 persons have died in Bengal from cholera alone.

FROM statistics covering the last thirty-two years it is computed that the average life of women in France has been 38 years, and of men 36 years. During last year, however, the average rose to 40 years for both sexes.

AN official report just issued on the vital statistics of England states that the proportion of Jews in the population of England has more than doubled in the last twenty years, by natural increase, not counting immigration.

THERE was a falling off in the value of both the imports and exports of France during last year. The imports were to the value of 4,412,390,000 francs, against 4,767,867,000 francs in 1891, and the exports 3,562,909,000 francs, as compared with 3,569,737,000 francs in 1891.

BRAZIL and other parts of South America are being rapidly settled by Italians, Portuguese and Spaniards, the Italians predominating in a remarkable manner. In Argentine alone, from 1879 to 1888, 67.4 per cent. of the immigrants were Italians. The proportion of English, Irish and Germans is very small.

An Ancient Slot Machine.

The slot machine which has recently had such a run in all catch-penny schemes, and which has often been pointed out as the one thing "new under the sun," has been proven to have been in use in Egypt long before the birth of Christ. Hero describes a combination jug and slot machine used for the dispensation of holy water. A coin of the value of five drachmæ dropped into a slot in the jug opened a valve which permitted a few drops of the purifying liquid to escape. One of the ancient slot jugs is now in the British museum.

A Woman's Back.

It is the mainspring of her life.

What can she do, where can she go, so long as that deadly backache saps every particle of her strength and ambition?

She cannot walk, she cannot stand; her housework is a burden; the hours behind the counter or in the factory are crushing; she is miserable.

The cause is some derangement of the uterus or womb. The backache is the sure symptom.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one unfailing remedy. A woman discovered it and gave it to women. A woman reads your letter and gives you a woman's sympathy and help. Thousands send letters grateful for physical salvation. The same salvation is for you. Don't hesitate.

All druggists sell it, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1. Correspondence freely answered. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., LYNN, MASS. Lynn Pills, 25c.

The Harpooner's Story.

New Bedford, June 1, 1883.

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Pacific, when five others of the crew and myself were laid up with scurvy. Our bodies were bloated, gums swollen and bleeding, teeth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath seemed rotten. Take it by and large we were pretty badly off. All our lime-juice was accidentally destroyed, but the captain had a couple dozen bottles of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and gave us that. We recovered on it quicker than I have ever seen men brought about by any other treatment for Scurvy, and I've seen a good deal of it. Seeing no mention in your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thought you ought to know of this, and so send you the facts.

Respectfully yours, RALPH Y. WINGATE.

The Trooper's Experience.

Maseru, Basutoland (S. Africa,) March, 1885.

DR. J. C. AYER & Co.—Gentlemen: I have much pleasure to testify to the great value of your Sarsaparilla. We have been stationed here for over two years, during which time we had to live in tents. Being under canvas for such a time brought on what is called in this country "veldt-sores." I had those sores for some time. I was advised to take your Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made my sores disappear rapidly, and I am now quite well.

Yours truly, T. K. BODEN,
Trooper, Cape Mounted Riflemen.

HALL'S HAIR RENEWER.

Vegetable Sicilian

The great popularity of this preparation, after its test of many years, should be an assurance, even to the most skeptical, that it is really meritorious. Those who have used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER know that it does all that is claimed.

It causes new growth of hair on bald heads—provided the hair follicles are not dead, which is seldom the case; restores natural color to gray or faded hair; preserves the scalp healthful and clear of dandruff; prevents the hair falling off or changing color; keeps it soft, pliant, lustrous, and causes it to grow long and thick.

HALL'S HAIR RENEWER produces its effects by the healthful influence of its vegetable ingredients, which invigorate and rejuvenate. It is not a dye, and is a delightful article for toilet use. Containing no alcohol, it does not evaporate quickly and dry up the natural oil, leaving the hair harsh and brittle, as do other preparations.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

Colors them brown or black, as desired, and is the best dye, because it is harmless; produces a permanent natural color; and, being a single preparation, is more convenient of application than any other.

WORLD'S FAIR EXHIBITS.

THE flag carried by Pizarro and his followers during the conquest of Peru will be a notable object in the Venezuelan exhibit at the world's fair. The sword of Cortez will be exhibited from Mexico.

SEVEN London-built coaches and sixty English horses, together with professional drivers and guards, are to be taken to Chicago to ply between the principal hotels and the exhibition there during the fair.

A POPULAR piece of world's fair jewelry, designed for sale in Chicago this year, takes the form of a chatelaine, with objects in the shape of hams, pig's feet, pigs' heads, ribs, sides of bacon, and sausages, all done in silver.

A REPORT is current in London that Prince George, of Wales, contemplates a trip to the United States in the spring. His intention is to participate in the naval review in New York harbor with a large squadron of warships, after which he will go to Chicago and visit the exposition.

AN effort is being made by the managers of the world's fair to induce Jean Armour Burns Brown, the great-granddaughter of Robert Burns, to visit Chicago this coming summer. She is a young woman about twenty, and her resemblance to the poet is said to be fairly startling. She lives near Dumfries, Scotland.

EIGHTY-SIX foreign countries, principalities and colonies will be officially represented among the world's fair exhibits. The appropriations for this showing aggregate $5,843,594. The thirty-one states of our own country which will be represented will spend about $5,000,000 in their exhibits and headquarters.

PEOPLE OVER THE SEAS.

ONE of the most comfortable royal homes in Europe is the palace at Berlin in which Empress Frederick lives when she is in the German capital.

M. EIFFEL, who is in such sore trouble about his share in the Panama swindle, has designed the new bridge over the Neva at St. Petersburg, upon the construction of which $14,000,000 will be expended.

ONE of the oldest of British noblemen is the duke of Northumberland, who is nearly ninety. He has been a member of five cabinets and in parliament for twenty years before he succeeded to his title.

QUEEN VICTORIA has learned to operate the typewriter, as has also her daughter, Princess Beatrice, and the click of the machine may often be heard in the private apartments of the sovereign at Windsor and Osborne.

AMONG Europeans who have a money interest in this country are Mrs. Gladstone, who owns three acres of land, worth $15,000, at Niagara Falls, Ont., presented to her by her husband, and Prince Bismarck, who is said to hold $50,000 worth of stock in the street car lines of Milwaukee.

CABLEGRAMS FROM EUROPE.

A LAUNDRY in England owned by women and employing only women earned $25,000 last year.

A FRENCH doctor recently celebrated his one hundredth birthday anniversary, and the fact was commented upon that among the large number present who had been his patients not one was over fifty years old, and most of them were much younger.

THE cholera commission of the senate of Hamburg has decided that all medical students who volunteered their services during the cholera epidemic there "in the belief that their services were to be remunerated" shall be paid at the rate of 20 marks (8½) a day.

IN Rome there is much talk about an old beggar who used to frequent the doors of the Church of the Minerva, and who, dying lately, was found to be possessed of 100,000 francs, which he had left by a properly drawn up will to his three children, who were completely ignorant of their father's wealth.

WELL WORTH A GLANCE.

TRAGEDY was first represented on a wagon by Thespis, at Athens, B. C. 536.

THE two bridges of Xerxes had three hundred and sixty-six and three hundred and fourteen boats respectively.

AT Avanches, in French-speaking Switzerland, a Swiss society of archaeology is laying bare the site of a Roman theater.

THE fleece of ten goats and the work of several men for half a year are required to make a genuine cashmere shawl a yard and a half wide.

THE superiority of tea over brandy in many cases is beyond question. The idea still lingers that alcohol keeps out the cold. As a matter of fact, mountaineers have found by repeated experience that the opposite of this holds true.

NICE TO KNOW.

RABBITSBURG is the name of a town in West Virginia.

A NEW YORK woman testifying in a case the other day called herself a pantry lady.

TEXAS has fifty-seven counties each of which is larger than the state of Rhode Island.

ACCORDING to the president of the Kansas State Dairy association it costs more to grow a pound of wheat than to make a pound of milk in that state, and the wheat sells for three-quarters of a cent a pound and the milk for a cent a pound.

SCIENTIFIC SUBJECTS.

IT is said to be a geological fact that gold strata underlie Philadelphia.

PLACE 500 earths like ours side by side and Saturn's outermost ring could easily inclose them.

THOUGH Pasteur has had twenty years' experience in germ culture, he is only yet at the beginning of his theory.

PITCH pine beams will shrink in thickness from 18⅝ inches to 18¼; spruce, from 8¼ inches to 8⅝; white pine, from 12 inches to 11⅝; yellow pine, a trifle less. Cedar beams will shrink from a width of 14 inches to 13¼; elm, from 11 to 10¾, and oak, from 12 to 11⅜.

A SNAKE laboratory, for the study, under strictly scientific conditions, of snake poisons and cures for snake bites is to be established in Calcutta. It is to be founded by a native of the province, and will be the only institution of its kind in the world. It will be thoroughly equipped and perfect in every respect.

THE late M. de Quartrefages, the French ethnologist, said all mankind came from a central mass in northern Asia, and that there were three fundamental types—black, white and yellow. These three types scattered over the world and intermingled, forming, in course of time, seventy-two distinct races of human beings.

A Canine Snake Skinner.

A prominent Germantown manufacturer owns a setter dog called Brave, which has a singular penchant for hunting snakes. After killing one he places one paw on the reptile's head and, seizing the neck with his teeth, he proceeds to skin it after the manner of skinning an eel, says the Cleveland World. These trophies he proudly carries to his master who nails them on the woodshed, much to the satisfaction of Brave. During a month's gunning trip in Perry county Brave's collection numbered forty-one skins, five of which had been stripped from good-sized rattlesnakes.

MRS. GEORGE HEARST, widow of Senator Hearst, of California, is the most heavily insured woman in the world. Her policies aggregate $800,000.

MRS. CUSTER attended her husband in his camp life for twenty years, moving from fort to fort, but she says he never confided his military plans to her.

MISS HELEN GOULD is, in her own right, the richest unmarried woman in the world, yet she is very simple in her tastes and unaffected in her manners, and is benevolent, domestic and retiring.

MRS. HOUGH, Jay Gould's sister, who receives by his will a gift of $25,000, and $2,000 yearly, is the wife of a retired Methodist minister. She and her husband have always been active in charitable work, so far as their slender means would permit.

MRS. PEARY, who shares in the fame of her husband, Lieut. Peary, the famous explorer of Greenland, said in conversation a few days ago that she thought she felt the cold more here during our recent siege of severe weather than she did last year up where a zero temperature is considered moderate.

THE MAKERS OF BOOKS.

MARK TWAIN'S funny stories have only recently begun to be appreciated in Italy.

MR. SWINBURNE has written a long poem on Grace Darling. His early life was passed in the locality which was the scene of her heroism, and he knew her father.

MARION CRAWFORD, the novelist, is being urged to prolong his stay in this country, and it is among the possibilities that he may be one of the Chautauqua lecturers next summer.

THE officials who look after the morals of the people of Koeslin, Prussia, have given notice that the works of Alexander Dumas, Alphonse Daudet, Eugene Sue, Count Tolstoi and Paul de Koch are subject to confiscation.

THERE is an elderly resident of Brooklyn, who in his youth saw much of the Scotch and English writers, through his intimacy with the head of a large publishing house. He affirms the truth of the story that it was the habit of Thomas De Quincey to draw a little brush from his pocket, and tenderly dust his roll of manuscript before submitting it to a publisher.

THE ARMIES OF TO-DAY.

BRITISH soldiers will wear seamless socks in the future, because they insure greater marching efficiency. The old style of seamed socks chafed the skin and made the soldiers foot-sore; the seamless socks do not.

MRS. PICKETT, widow of the confederate general who won lasting fame at Gettysburg, has been in Washington endeavoring to have her son appointed as paymaster in the army with the rank and pay of a cavalry major.

WAR and glory have been costly things to France. Between 1792 and 1815 she sacrificed one-half of the 4,500,000 soldiers whom she sent to fight her battles. War has cost her in this century not far from 6,000,000 lives.

WIRE glass, that is, glass in which is imbedded a fine wire network, is now extensively used in buildings subjected to jars and shocks. It is said that the doors, windows and ports of the cruiser New York will be filled with this wire glass.

WE learn now that the famous jubilee shot fired from a twenty-two-ton gun in Queen Victoria's jubilee year, to ascertain how far a shot could be carried, remained in the air 69½ seconds, and the highest point reached in its flight of 12 miles was 17,000 feet.

AS SOON as the new military laws shall have come into full effect the German army will comprise 5,000,000 men; the French, 4,350,000; the Russian, 4,000,000; the Italian, 2,256,000; the Austrian, 1,900,000; the Swiss, 489,000, and the Belgian, 258,000. Altogether Europe will be able to dispose of not less than 22,000,000 soldiers, or 15,000,000 more than she had in 1869.

TREES AND FLOWERS.

MEN cutting ice at Baxton, Me., found a half-blown water lily imbedded in one of the cakes. It was thawed out, put in a sunny window, and soon bloomed out as handsomely as any lily of July.

THE Douglas fir in British America is celebrated for its strength and straightness, frequently growing over three hundred feet high. This is being largely exported to California, where it is used in place of Oregon pine.

SOME seedsmen of New York have been selling bulbous plants just ready to bloom at about the price which the bulbs brought last autumn when purchasers hid them away in dark cellars from six to nine weeks in order to obtain a sudden splendor of blossoms in midwinter.

THE life of trees is determined very largely by climate. Actual experiment has shown that the English oak, for instance, matures, and consequently dies, sooner in the United States than in England. The life of one of these trees across the water is estimated to be a thousand years, and in America but three hundred.

AN experimenter has discovered that nasturtiums will live and flourish, but bloom sparingly, in a sunny apartment, where the temperature at night falls sometimes to or below the freezing point. It has been found, however, that those neutral tinted nasturtiums, a comparatively recent triumph of floriculture, not only need more water than the ordinary nasturtium, but also are much more sensitive to cold.

THE largest child ever born, it is said, was the son of Bates, the "Kentucky Giant," and his wife, the "Nova Scotia Giantess." This infant Hercules weighed 23¾ pounds.

THE value of correct punctuation is shown in the annual weather report of the Kansas meteorological authority, who is made to say that last year was "characterized by a low, mean temperature."

Good in Either Case.

A seedy-looking man armed with a subscription list applied to Mr. Bondclipper, a Wall street banker, for a quarter.

"Have you got any change for a dollar bill?"

The unfortunate man said he had not.

"I am very sorry but I've not got anything smaller. I would like to help you out. I am always glad to assist the deserving poor."

The mendicant retired, but returned in a short time saying he could change that bill.—Texas Siftings.

HE WAS A HOOOOO.

Senator Reagan Brought Bad Luck to His Colleagues.

"When Senator Reagan was in congress from Texas," said a visitor to Baltimore, "he was regarded as a hoodoo. He had a habit of walking aimlessly around the floors of the senate chamber and then sitting down without thinking in some member's chair. The curious part of it was that whenever he sat down in a senator's seat bad luck invariably followed. I remember that when Senator Eustis from Louisiana was a candidate for reelection Reagan was constantly in his chair and he was defeated. Then he sat one day in Ransom's seat and the next week Ransom was defeated. Finally the members began talking about it and Reagan was looked upon as a regular hoodoo. In 1889 Senator Harris, of Tennessee, was having a hard fight for reelection. The day he started home to look after his fences he called the Texas statesman aside and said:

"'See here, old man, while I don't believe in such superstitions in the least still you will do me a favor if you will keep away from my chair when I am away.'

"Reagan consented and Harris was reelected. Not long after that Reagan sat down in Ransom's place, and the following day the North Carolina senator received a telegram commanding him to come home on the very next train: that serious opposition had suddenly sprung up against his reelection, his presence was demanded at once. Reagan had been in the habit of sitting in his (Ransom's) seat, so he raised it aside and told him about it, intimating that the fact that he had been using his chair caused the disaster. Reagan got mad and said something about people being darned foolish. Ransom went home, and when he got there went into the senate chamber the next morning he found that Ransom's defeat had been moved away."—St. Louis Republic.

Constipation

Demands prompt treatment. The results of neglect may be serious. Avoid all harsh and drastic purgatives, the tendency of which is to weaken the bowels. The best remedy is Ayer's Pills. Being purely vegetable, their action is prompt and their effect always beneficial. They are an admirable Liver and After-dinner pill, and everywhere endorsed by the profession.

"Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."—DR. I. E. FOWLER, Bridgeport, Conn.

"I can recommend Ayer's Pills above all others, having long proved their value as a cathartic for myself and family."—J. T. HESS, Leithsville, Pa.

"For several years Ayer's Pills have been used in my family. We find them an for constipation and indigestion, and are never without them in the house."—Moses Grenier, Lowell, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Pills, for liver troubles and indigestion, during many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action."—L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y.

"I suffered from constipation which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared it would cause a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills effected a complete cure."—D. Burke, Saco, Me.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years and consider them an invaluable family medicine. I know of no better remedy for liver troubles, and have always found them a prompt cure for dyspepsia."—James Quinn, 90 Middle st., Hartford, Conn.

"Having been troubled with costiveness, which seems inevitable with persons of sedentary habits, I have tried Ayer's Pills, hoping for relief. I am glad to say that they have served me better than any other medicine. I arrive at this conclusion only after a faithful trial of their merits."—Samuel T. Jones, Oak st., Boston, Mass.
